

DURUA

They are also known as Dharua. Duruas are a smaller group of tribes differentiated from other by their physical appearance. Their physique is very similar to the African Negroes, medium stature having well developed chests and massive shoulders with broad nose. Their hair is black, coarse and curly and has scanty growth of beard and moustache. They are divided into different clans like Soma, Surya, Yadu, Kadamb, Gangu, Garg etc. Traditionally Duruas were engaged by the native kings as quasi-military servicemen. However, later-on they shifted to agriculture and with changing time they have also migrated to other forms of livelihoods. They mostly worship Hindu Gods.
